

Holger Nehring, Visiting Scholar at the Mershon Center for International Security Studies, speaks on "A Peaceful Europe? European Exceptionalism in the 20th Century" on March 4, 2009.

Holger Nehring teaches contemporary European History at the University of Sheffield, United Kingdom. He is author of Life against Death, a connective history of the British and West German protests against nuclear weapons in the 1950s and early 1960s, which will come out with Oxford University Press in 2009.

Holger Nehring (left) talks with Carole Fink, Humanities Distinguished Professor of History, after his lecture at the Mershon Center on March 4.